City Clerk Signs Salary Warrants In Hospital Bed

The office of the City Clerk of Carmel-by-the-Sea was a room in the Community Hospital for an hour Thursday noon.

Saidee Van Brower is warding off threatened pneumonia, but she sat up in bed long enough to sign warrants to the extent of $3,204 so that Carmel's bills could be paid, and Carmel's employees could receive their salaries.

Saidee's niece, Jeannette Parkes, sworn in as Deputy City Clerk two weeks ago when Saidee Van Brower first became ill, presented the warrants to the City Council at Wednesday night's meeting. The council members affixed their signatures. Then came the announcement from Mayor P. A. McCreery that the warrants were valueless without City Clerk Saidee Van Brower's signature. A deputy clerk can carry on a number of the city clerk's duties in her absence, but the warrants to be valid must be signed by the city clerk herself. Such was the interpretation of the law by City Attorney Peter Ferrante.

And there were the salaries of 26 employees to be paid.

The council had a choice of two solutions: the warrants could be made valid by court procedure, or they could be held up until Saidee's recovery. Either action would mean delay. Deputy Clerk Jeannette Parkes, knowing Saidee would not want the city employees to have to wait for their pay, offered to take the warrants to her for signature. The City Council sat back in their respective chairs and breathed a unanimous sigh of relief. Saidee, though, she was ill, would take care of this difficulty as Saidee, in her years of service to the city, has taken care of so many difficulties.

Five Days Per Toot, Judge Ross Warns Carmel Horn Blowers

Editor, Pine Cone Cymbal:

Complaints are being made to me that people are being disturbed by early morning blowing of automobile horns.

Operators of automobiles are blowing horns to announce their arrival at homes of persons to be picked up for rides to work, etc.

Through this paper I desire to warn automobile drivers that to sound the automobile horn for any purpose other than for safety purposes is a violation of the state law.

To sound an automobile horn to call out a grocer from his store, or to call attention of a friend on the street, or to announce arrival before a residence, or for any other purpose than safety subjects the horn blower to a $50 fine, or 5 days in jail for each toot.

I am for strict enforcement of this law, and warn that any arrests made for its violation will be severely dealt with by me, and it makes no difference who the party arrested may be.

GEORGE P. ROSS
City Judge of Carmel.

Town Dresses Up As Drive Rolls Toward Quota

With the Red Cross War Fund Campaign only five days old, already $4,500 has been raised toward Carmel's quota of $18,900. Four thousand dollars of the money so far collected has been turned in by members of the advance subscriptions committee, while $500 has been raised through house to house canvass and contributions made at War Fund Headquarters.

Meanwhile, the town has taken on a festive air with flags and posters out in honor of the drive; and amusing, decorative store windows arranged to publicize the event. Considerable talent and in- (Continued on page 4)

Second Signup Heavier Than First, 5682

Carmel volunteers issued 5682 No. 2 ration books during the signup at Sunset School last week, an increase of 636 over the 5046 sugar books issued only a few months ago, an indication of a comparable population increase in this area.

The second signup was handled with the efficiency of the first, though there were more people to serve. The work was under the direction of Mrs. Helen Wood who had for helpers 75 people a day working in three shifts.

In addition to the 5682 No. 2 books, 116 No. 1 books were issued.

Sailor Kip Leaves For Farragut, Louie And Gang Carry On

Carl Jerome (Kip) Silvey went to San Francisco a few weeks ago, intending to enlist in the Army, but the Navy got him instead. He left last Friday for his basic training in Farragut, Idaho.

Kip will be missed in Carmel, where he has been in business for the past six years, having come here from Watsonville, where he was associated with W. J. Espindola in the merchants' wholesale business. In leaving to enter the service, he had some very appreciative words to say about his freedom from worry over the way Mrs. Silvey will be able to carry on in his absence, aided by the "Kip crew"—Louie, Sarah, Manuel, Lou, Mickey, Marie, Kay, Harry and Floyd Smith and his boys.

From Marine Corps Boot Camp in San Diego came the above picture of Private Donald Eugene Berry, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Berry of Lobos and Third Streets, receiving his citation from Colonel George T. Hall as the outstanding Leatherneck in his training unit.

Don attended Sunset and was graduated from Carmel High School with the first class. He trained in sheet metal work at a Palo Alto defense school and worked at Mather Field in Sacramento repairing bombers.

Enlisting in the Marines several months ago, he is now finishing training at Boot Camp, honor man of his platoon.

Planting Charts and Chicks; Carmel Is Going Bucolic and Likes It

An indication that Carmel intends to raise its own summer salads and that the dirt will be flying as soon as it dries out after the rains, is in the announcement made this week by Mrs. Helen Poulsen, one of the leaders in the Farm Bureau Grow Your Own project, that approximately 400 vegetable planting charts were distributed from the garden project table maintained by the Carmel Women's Club in Sunset gymnasium during the ration book signup.

The chart lists varieties of vegetables, planting time, time of harvest, how much seed to use and how far apart to sow. It is especially valuable since it was compiled by T. W. Thwaites, assistant county agent and is based on local growing conditions. The charts are free and some are still available at the Pine Cone Cymbal office.

Vegetable growing enthusiasm extends to Sunset, where Miss Jeanne Staffelsbach, with the help of Charles Watson, is helping the children to plant vegetable seeds in flats so that when the young plants are ready to transplant, the children can take them home and set them out in a home garden.

At the High School Ernest Calley is in charge of the garden project in which care will be taken to plant only early maturing material so that harvest time will arrive before school closes for the summer.

C. D. Settled in New Office, Helps With B and C Cards

Carmel's Civilian Defense Information and Registration Office moved March 1 from its Sixth street location into the building inspector's office in the city hall on Dolores street.

This office, staffed by volunteer workers, will be open daily from 10:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. except Saturdays and Sundays. The office hours on Saturday are from 10:00 a. m. until 1:00 p. m. The new telephone number is Carmel 481.

Mrs. Bruce Spencer, who is in charge of volunteers for this office, states that applications are available in the Carmel office for renewal of "B" and "C" gas books,

Quarantine For Rabies In Carmel

Either today or tomorrow Carmel will be placed under a 90-day rabies quarantine, it was announced at the city council meeting Wednesday night.

Mayor P. A. McCreery reported that six known cases of rabies had broken out during the week, and a number of others in the other Peninsula cities. The situation has become serious enough to warrant the full cooperation of Carmel with County and State authorities who have already received the consent of the other Peninsula cities to declare a "spot quarantine" Mayor McCreery said.

The councilmen agreed to be in readiness for a special meeting to authorize the quarantine as soon as the County authorities had completed arrangements with the State office to declare the quarantine—sometime this week-end.

Under the quarantine dogs must be confined to the premises of (Continued on page 12)

Hugh Gottfried Enlists in Army Air Ground Crew

Hugh Gottfried leaves today to begin training as a voluntary inductee in the Army Airforce ground crew, the station to which he will be assigned as yet unannounced.

Hugh is distinctively a Carmel boy, born and raised right here, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gottfried, grandson of Mrs. Fred Becholdt. He is a graduate of Sunset school and a member of last year's graduating class of Carmel high, where he played end on the school's first football team.

His hobbies have always been in the field of physics, radio and mechanics—perhaps an inheritance from his dad, who served overseas in World War I with the signal corps, enlisting as a private and returning with the rank of first lieutenant to engage for many years in the contract business in Carmel.

Now in his freshman year at U.C.L.A., Hugh has voluntarily put aside his school books for the present in order to enter the service.

Nobody's Boy Ward of Santa Cruz Court

Kid February, the 17-year-old boy who made life exhausting for Carmel police throughout last month with thefts, burglary and assorted larceny, petty and grand, until they caught up with him in Cannery Row in Monterey last week, faced Judge Henry Jorgensen in Juvenile Court Saturday for sentence, and got—the brush-off.

"He doesn't belong to us," the Judge decided, on the strength of the boy's fairly recent residence in Watsonville, though he has spent much of his youth in Carmel and Monterey; and his honor made him a ward of the court—the Santa Cruz County Court. Now it's up to somebody else to rap Kid February's knuckles. He's still nobody's boy.

American Schools Fail in Training To Maintain Democratic Way of Life Dr. E. O. Sisson Tells Women's Group

Not only has Europe never had education (or "schooling") for democracy, but even the United States has never had such "schooling," said Dr. E. O. Sisson in a discussion of "Education for Democracy" before the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon.

It is true that this country has fostered a "hail-fellow-well-met" democracy in contrast to the distinct class education systems of European countries, but it has given no real schooling designed specifically for training in maintaining a democratic way of life, the essential foundation of this government. Dr. Sisson warns that schools must give attention to this necessary part of education if disaster is to be avoided.

Abraham Lincoln had the least schooling but the most real education of the public men of his time, and the greatest grasp of the democratic idea. The "Founding Fathers" did not have real democratic principles, as the states' early constitutional restrictions on the right to vote will show, and the really democratic ones among the early presidents were widely distrusted by the aristocratic men who actually ruled the country. However, the country had a democratic society without the class distinctions and barriers of the European countries, and it is this social democracy that has persisted and influenced government in this country.

Although it did not train for democracy, the public school system, which began in the 1830's, has been a tremendous influence for democracy because it has been free to all persons, citizens or alien, giving an equality of opportunity to everyone regardless of birth or financial status. The greatest leader in this system was Horace Mann, under whose guidance the system was developed into the broad fields prevalent today throughout the country from kindergarten up through the university. It is essentially a Christian movement, with emphasis on the child and its nature and needs, rather than upon the subjects taught and this principle is at the very core of the progressive education today. While there are so-called progressivists who lose sight of the real purpose, education, they are, as in every movement, the ones who overdo the methods, a small minority who fail to grasp the real heart of modern education.

But, Dr. Sisson pointed out, the schools fall short of their duty in failing to plan their courses on the principles and purposes of democracy; they do not instill the idea and practices of democracy, as some European countries instill the idea of totalitarianism. They leave democracy to be absorbed somehow from life, whereas it should be the center of the whole school curriculum. Unless this lack in education in this country is corrected, the results may bring disaster, the speaker believes. — L. L. T.

MAC Soloists to Sing Folk Songs, Ballads, Opera

By MRS. J. W. GETSINGER

The Musical Art Club will present a concert on Sunday, March 14 at 3 p.m. in the music room of the Carmel high school.

There will be two soloists: Gladys Steele and Carl Hague. Gladys Steele, an accomplished musician and linguist, will interpret folk and character songs. Her repertoire includes American, English, French, German, Spanish, Russian and Scandinavian songs. It also includes songs in Scotch, Irish, Negro and French-Canadian dialects. She is the daughter of a Danish mother and an American father and several members of her mother's family have been active in the European theater.

Carl Hague, a young American tenor, was born of Norwegian parents, a lineal descendant of Johan Svendsen, celebrated Norwegian composer. His repertoire is varied and ranges from classics to ballads and selections from grand opera, light opera, musical comedy and includes rarely heard songs of the Scandinavian countries.

Many new members are joining the Musical Art Society. The present club year extends to January, 1944, with many fine programs to be presented.

WEEKEND REUNION

Peggy Doud and Alice Christensen will both be journeying home to Carmel this weekend from Dominican College. Toland Doud is also expected to arrive on brief holiday from his studies at Menlo Junior College.

Adult School

During the coming week the Carmel Adult School will offer the final session of one class and the opening session of another. With the inevitable approach of March 15, the shadow of the income tax is looming ever higher on the horizon. In one last effort to assist taxpayers of Carmel, Mr. Eben Whittlesey will meet his class on Wednesday night in the Sunset School library. If you have not yet filed your return, you may find this group of great help. The new class, which is a repeat of a previous course, but with a new emphasis, will be Mrs. Helen Poulsen's nutrition class. Now more than ever before, the importance of proper nutrition is obvious. But with the rationing of so many foods, how to achieve this end is a problem, a problem which the nutrition class will attempt to solve. The class meets on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the Sunset School lunch room at 3:15.

The large crowd which witnessed Miss Elsie Cross' colored pictures of Guatemala was enthusiastic in its praise. The vivid color was well handled, both technically and artistically by the photographer, and the narration by Miss Cross was well adapted to the type of picture. All in attendance agreed that the evening was well spent. The next meeting of the Carmel Forum will be on the 29th of this month, when Mr. Ivan Jacobsen, who recently escaped from a Nazi internment camp, will speak. He is sponsored by the state and local Defense Councils.

$150 FOR CHINESE CHILDREN

A special offering for relief of unfortunate children of the world taken at Christmas time in the Church of the Wayfarer was supplemented by added gifts which brought the sum to $150. It was decided to turn the entire amount over to the relief of children in China, who are suffering indescribable privations from the five years of war and the devastation it has brought.

Buffa Reports on Carmel's Health Program at Meet

Harold Buffa, Carmel High School coach, spent last week at a Health Conference in San Jose, which was called by the State Department of Education and attended by health coordinators from all the schools of central California.

The greatest emphasis was placed on nutrition, according to Buffa. With the tightening of food rationing, mothers with families to feed are morally obligated to be nutrition experts. It is vitally necessary for all of us to understand the fundamentals of getting the most in nutritive value out of our foods, as well as how to stretch the foods—and the food dollar, to its limit.

Buffa was delighted to report to the conference that the Carmel Schools have an active health program, and have had for a number of years. Also that courses in nutrition are offered for adults, by the adult school, in both day and

Margaret Monk to Give Rationing Help Over Radio

A series of ten-minute talks on "Point Rationing", stressing the subject of nutrition, will be given each Thursday afternoon at 1:15 over KDON, under the auspices of the Monterey Civilian Defense.

Mrs. Margaret Monk of Carmel, well known as a book reviewer and through her classes in philosophy at the Adult School, is to be speaker.

ON A.W.V.S. BUSINESS

Mrs. C. H. (Rama) Stearns spent two days in San Francisco this week, attending meetings of the A. W. V. S.

evening courses.

"All told, Carmel seemed to stack up very well with the best in the state, in its whole health program," Buffa says. He urges, however, that more people, and especially more mothers, get into the nutrition classes.

Lions' Guests Furnish Amusement At Dinner Meeting

Dramatics, athletics, and a touch of vaudeville, blended nicely in the entertainment at the Lions' Club dinner meeting Tuesday night at Pine Inn.

Edward Kuster and Frank Hefling read a scene from the Pulitzer prize play, "They Knew What They Wanted," and carried it off with the same aplomb as when they gave it in one of its early productions here in Carmel.

Kuster was present as a guest of the Lions. Judge Ray Baugh, another guest, did one of his celebrated Japanese skits for the entertainment of the members. Two other guests, Lt. R. B. McPhail and Ensign F. H. Gage, Del Monte Preflight school athletic instructors and former football stars, talked briefly on sports.

Robert Blessing was initiated as a new member.

Carmel USO Breaks Into Print at Camp McQuaide

In the February 19 issue of "Overs and Shorts," the "Panorama" of Camp McQuaide, appears the following tribute to the Carmel USO:

This is a tribute to a USO — it's a USO you don't hear very much about—in fact, many soldiers don't even know it exists. But after you once attend this USO, enjoy the hospitality and friendliness of the Hostesses and Junior Hostesses, you never will quit talking about it.

The USO is the Carmel United Service Organization, located in one of California's most picturesque and quaint seashore towns. Carmel-by-the-Sea is located four miles from Monterey and offers visitors such scenic beauties as the 17-mile drive; Cypress Point; Carmel Beach; quaint cafes, tea-rooms and shops and almost every type of entertainment you could ask for.

In the center of the California city is the Carmel USO—directed by the good women and young ladies of Carmel. When you enter the building, you are immediately ushered into a "Coffee Bar" at which free coffee, sandwiches and cakes are served all day. Free cigarettes are placed around for your convenience. In another room is a piano, soft lounges, magazines, radio-phonograph and all types of entertainment. A complete set of musical records of worldknown fame is available for those who enjoy good music. In still another room "jute box" dancing with the beautiful Junior Hostesses goes on all day as well as ping-pong and other recreation. Friday night is a special night at the Carmel USO, and it is that night that formal and informal dances and parties are held.

To the directors of the Carmel USO—our hats are off to you. Your hospitality will never be forgotten.

Dancing and Song In Rhythm Parade Film at Carmel

Such favorites as Ted Fio Rito, his orchestra, the Mills Brothers with their unique song arrangements, and shapely Hollywood girls of the Florentine Gardens Revue all appear in the film, Rhythm Parade, which shows today and Saturday at the Carmel Theater. This is double featured for contrast with the picture, Tombstone, starring Richard Dix and Frances Gifford, a romantic action story about "the town that was too tough to die." This will be the program plus cartoons and the second chapter of Spy Smasher, for the boys' and girls' matinee Saturday.

Wake Island, a picture based on authentic records of the defense of Wake by a mere handful of Marines and made with the cooperation of the Marine Corps, will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Leading roles are played by Brian Donlevy, MacDonald Carey and Robert Preston. Short features and the news make up the program with a continuous show Sunday, starting at 2 p.m.

Soldier, Sailor Teachers Don't Forget Carmel

They put down their books and pens and took up the tools of soldiering with a will, these Carmel teachers who have gone into the armed forces, but they keep a warm spot in their hearts for the associates they have left behind, witness three letters received this week by School Superintendent J. W. Getsinger.

Lt. Donald Craig, USN, a few weeks ago teaching journalism, history and coaching in athletics at Carmel High school, writes from Dartmouth, where he is taking his Naval officers' indoctrination course, of the beauty of New England under its mantle of snow, adding with a touch of homesickness "The Village of Hanover reminds me very much of Carmel."

Lonesome Boys, Dogs, Streets Discussed At Business Meet

The Red Cross does not confine its activities to bandaging wounds of battle. It has also undertaken to treat sore hearts. This fact was brought out in a talk by Mrs. Rosemary Dickinson before the Carmel Business association meeting Thursday night at La Ribera Hotel.

She told of the boy in Alaska. His home was Johannesburg, South Africa, and he was sick. The Red Cross representative in that U. S. Army Camp investigated the boy's case, then provided the medicine that effected an immediate cure—a cable from South Africa from his mother. The boy had been transferred so often that his mail hadn't caught up with him, and he hadn't heard from his mother in a year. His malady, of course, was homesickness.

Nearer home, a boy at Fort Ord was provided with money to go home to visit his sick father somewhere in the East. The Red Cross representative investigated the need for his going, wangled the necessary leave from the military authorities and bought the railroad ticket.

Such services are part of the Red Cross morale building and mental hygiene program. Their most recent, and most effective morale builder, was the installation of movie houses in 15 lonely Aleutian Island camps.

Business of the meeting consisted in the resolution to enlist the aid of the City Council to get priorities for a street light for the intersection of Carpenter and Serra Ave.; to urge the Council to see that the ordinance barring dogs from restaurants, and the ordinance prohibiting merchants from leaving refuse and boxes on the curbs be enforced. The Association went on record as being opposed to the street department's continuing work on Junipero street. The members believed there was more immediate need for repair work to be done on other streets.

MOVING MANPOWER

That's Our War Job!

TO MILITARY CENTERS

TO WAR PLANTS

TO SHIP YARDS

TO BUSINESS CENTERS

TO RURAL COMMUNITIES

The nation's highways have gone to war. Over them the bus lines are moving vital manpower—military personnel on important missions—selectees to induction centers—farmers on their "must" trips—workers to war plants and shipyards—business men and women on their essential activities.

Greyhound is concentrating on this wartime job, keeping its buses rolling over a vast network of routes. At the same time we are saving precious rubber, fuel and steel by mass transportation of war travelers and by expert maintenance and operating efficiency.

We are putting everything we have into the war effort ... glad that our broad experience, widespread facilities and skilled personnel are available for the vital job of moving manpower.

With your cooperation, we shall continue to keep the highways at work for Victory.

WARTIME TRAVEL SUGGESTIONS

You will help the war effort and will have a better trip if you will follow these suggestions:

1. Consult your Greyhound agent in advance for useful travel information.
2. Avoid delay by purchasing your ticket well ahead of time.
3. Travel in mid-week, rather than on week-ends.
4. Carry as little baggage as you conveniently can.

MAXINE ALBRO

By IRENE ALEXANDER

The name of Maxine Albro, a reproduction of whose currently exhibited "Circus" appears on page five of this week's Pine Cone Cymbal, has been well introduced to the art world, both in Carmel and elsewhere. Photographs of the artist, standing beside her Mexican mural in the Santa Barbara Biltmore Hotel, or thoughtfully fitting colored marble fragments into her mosaic design for the facade of the San Francisco state college at Haight and Buchanan streets, have appeared from time to time in newspapers and art magazines, familiarizing her growing public with that slight animated figure, the heavy mop of black hair, and a face which combines so pleasantly her one-fourth Spanish inheritance and the three-quarters Scotch-Irish of her ancestry.

It was a desire to catch something of the personality which expresses itself in her varied work, and learn more of the process which is leading Maxine Albro to wide recognition that inspired a call upon Maxine Albro this week in her Carmel home.

The Parker Hall home (for in private life she is Mrs. Parker Hall, wife of a talented sculptor of more than three-fourths Irish inheritance) is typically old Carmel—built many years ago by Mr. Hall's parents for a vacation cottage among the woods extending from Santa Rita to Santa Fe on Fourth street. A winding path leads from the back gate on Santa Rita past a bird bath and a wise and witty horse carved from wood by Mr. Hall, to the wide porch and sunny living room of the house itself—a living room with rough plaster walls, colored beams and a definite atmosphere of Mexico—even to the pet lizard basking on the red bricks of the patio beyond the open door. There is a feeling of bare, clean boards and woven rugs, sturdy furniture, bright, Mexican pottery, quaint, carved figures, painted masks and wonderful old painted chests—making a place of color, work, and above all, quiet gaiety.

One of the first traits that strikes one in Maxine Albro is her modest appreciation of any recognition achieved by her work. Praise—and she has had much—has not affected her sense of humor nor the very natural and unselfconscious attitude she has toward those who take pleasure in her art. Her reaction to the local sensation caused by her "Circus" and the way in which she treated last week's news that one of her canvasses had been purchased by the University of Arizona was quite the same. She feels that critics have been very good to her—and is grateful. And this last-named success is a very real and coveted one, too, for her canvas forms part of a collection which is destined for that mecca of all American artists—the Metropolitan Museum in New York. It is interesting, also, that the purchase was made, not from a view of the actual painting, but from a reproduction in the form of a small colored slide.

Maxine Albro is a native of San Francisco, where along with her regular schooling she studied sculpture with Stackpole and early made up her mind to visit Mexico some day. The traditional and conventional in studies of any kind—most of all in art—were never for her, however, and perhaps this fact as much as any other has contributed to the zest, individuality, variety and freshness of her work. Instead of the regulation college course, Miss Albro chose Europe, pausing enroute for a brief study of sculpture and lithography in the Art Students' League of New York.

In Paris she studied drawing and water color and spent much of her time in the Louvre with the work of her favorite Da Vinci, and

OLD CARMEL

*They will forget the chaparral
That clothed the long slope to the sea;
In years to come they will forget
How wild was this place, and how free!*

*There will be houses ranged on streets,
And the woods will be gone, and the pines;
They will crowd out the little feet
That patterned the path with long lines.*

*A city shall defeat the quail
That called by the candle of dawn;
There will be no more boughs to hide
The gentle-paced doe and the fawn.*

*Order will kill sweet negligence
That nourished the flower and the bird;
Speed with its cold efficiency
Will crush all the singing unheard.*

*They will forget the lantern days
When cabins were scattered and few;
And only the glowworm lit the path
Through the dark of the moon and the dew.*

*To the redwood room and the embered hearth
Where the lamp for reading shone,
And the manzanita sparked its fire
Through the words of Dante and Donne...*

*There will be wealth and circumstance;
But the faded old dwellers of yore,
Who nevertheless were the rich after all,
Those shall be known no more.*

—VALERIE GOUGH.

BRIDGE OF SONG

*You sailed to some dark continent,
And I was left alone
Here on this little isle of time
Cut off from the unknown;*

*So I have built a bridge of song,
The best device I knew,
To cross what seas may run between
And so arrive at you.*

—IRENE WILDE.

FROM A NIGHT-CLIFF

*Watching from a night-cliff, the shafts of light: lead-blue;
Piercing the fire-fly plane: following,
Groping to find it drugged or blinded,
Circling, circling...*

*Watching the city:
The long bright rows of lights like new beads—
They have lost the fly. They have found it:
The thin, pale pins now pierce it against night;
And over all, the wind.*

*Assuring myself there will be morning,
I turn my eyes toward the dark east: how long must this play
Of pins and lights continue?*

—WILLIS EBERMAN.

REVIEWS

found the exhibits of the moderns an experience which literally bowled her over. Those were the days when groups of young students met and argued violently over all that was so new and startling in color and design. At first Picasso was to Maxine Albro what she describes as a ghastly shock, but she found herself going back for more, fascinated by what she found awful, literally jolted into seeing the reality and the vitality of what he and a horde of new, young Russian exhibitors were trying to do. She was attracted, too, by the contrasting delicacy and beauty she found in the work of Marie Laurencin—and it is significant that one finds in the artist's own work of today those two contrasting traits of vigorous, robust depth and delicate, sophisticated whimsicality.

From Paris, Maxine Albro journeyed down into Italy—keeping her eyes open and keeping firmly also to that principle of self-criticism which is in a way the mainspring of her progress through art. Never shrinking from honest and competent criticism wherever she can find it, she still feels that the artist's first and never-ending responsibility is to build up within himself his own powers of criticism and in this way differentiate between what is actual in art and what is a bewildered allegiance to outworn tradition.

Upon her return from Europe, in 1930, she decided to satisfy at once her long-cherished desire to see Mexico. Up to that time her mediums of expression had been drawing, water color and sculpture—and she went to Mexico with the idea of continuing her study of sculpture there. It was not long, however, before she equipped herself with oils and canvasses and began to record in paint the color and life about her. The result of the two years spent in Mexico was an all-Mexican exhibit in New York in 1932 which met with instant acclaim. Paintings of Mexican scenes by Maxine Albro found their way into homes far and wide—sometimes singly, and often in twos and threes and even fours. One visitor to the New York gallery—a mining engineer from Chihuahua—carried the image of one painting so accurately back with him that long afterwards he wrote, describing it in detail and asking that it be shipped to him, since he had never ceased regretting that he had not taken it back with him in the first place.

A second showing of the same collection was given at Gumps in San Francisco the following year and a third at the Palace of the Legion of Honor. These exhibitions established Maxine Albro as a distinguished interpreter of the Mexican scene—and numerous as well as varied were the records she kept, from portrait studies of the inhabitants to the delightful series of interiors made of the convent at Churubusco, with their walls in soft pinks and grays, their bright glazed tiles and beautifully modeled pillars.

The decorative arts have always appealed to Maxine Albro, and today her frescoes adorn the patio and living room walls of numerous private homes of taste, such as the Pebble Beach Hacienda of Mr. Harold Mack, as well as such spots as the patio of the Allied Arts Guild at Menlo Park, the Santa Barbara Biltmore and the north wall of the Coit Tower in San Francisco, which bears her mural entitled "Agriculture".

During the past five years Maxine Albro and her sculptor husband have made their home for the most part very quietly here in Carmel, finding it the best possible place to work with concentration. She still keeps her studio apartment in San Francisco, however, and for the present that is Parker Hall's headquarters while he is engaged on defense work in the Bay region. During these past years, too, Miss Albro has become a member of the Carmel Art Association, and has made a striking departure from her earlier Mexican paintings. It began, she explains, in a

Nature
Nature finds its way
In the pathways of today.
Nature is the flowers
That stand the little showers.
Nature is the leaves of green
That will make a beautiful queen.
And April with its wild flowers
Also brings the April showers
Nature with its red and green
Is, of all the land, the queen.
—Carol Graham, 4th Grade.

Locked in the Cellar Locked in the cellar isn't very much fun.
You bump into a wine keg and maybe some rum.
You pound on the door as hard as you can,
And knock over a bunch of cooking pans.
After awhile someone comes to your aid.
Say, I'll bet you were really afraid!
—Bob Burgess, 6th Grade.

Horses and Chewing Gum
Horses and chewing gum don't go well together. One day I bought six packages of chewing gum and I chewed them all at once. My cheeks were puffed up like balls.
I started at 8:00 a.m. and stopped at 8:30 p.m. I then threw my gum away and my horse came over and began chewing it. She got it all over her hay and oats and then shook her head and made a worse mess. Horses and chewing gum don't go well together. — Henry Werner, 5th Grade.

Dogs
Dogs are my favorite hobby and I collect pictures of them along with my other hobbies. Out of a dog book I learned much about the meaning of dog barking. A very short bark means
"Welcome" and much barking, with growls in between, means a fight. If you would like to get this book it is called "Dogs, Their Health and Habits." It is at the Harrison Library in the "dog" section. — Louise Harber, 6th
Grade.

So-Long
Once there was a dog named So-Long. He wasn't an ordinary dog because he was very long,
and that is where he got his name.
This dog thought there was nothing in the world as long as he was. But one day, as he was walking along he saw Long-Leap the frog, and he knew he wasn't the longest thing in the world. Then he saw Long-Neck, the swan, and he growled very loud, for he was angry. He had found there were many things longer than he.
When he reached home, he saw Long-Live, the King, and he wagged his tail. That night, while he was asleep he growled when Long-Leap, the frog, jumped through his dreams. He snorted when Long-Neck, the swan, glided through. But he smiled as he heard Long-Live, the king, say
"Hello, So-Long." — Ruth Clark,
5th Grade.

Country School
While my mother and I were in Visalia, I attended a country school with my cousin. It was a two-room building, and there were four grades in each room. When the teacher gave the spelling test, she had to give four different words. If you didn't know which word was yours, you really got mixed up. — Roberta Roberts, 7th Grade.

Mother's Birthday
Have you ever been at Mon-aco's in the International Settlement in San Francisco? It is a place to eat dinner and to watch a floor show. Sometimes you may see puppets, dances, or an accor-dian player. The master of ceremonies sang "Happy Birthday" to my mother. We had to start home early in the evening. Even so, it was eleven o'clock when we got home. — Barbara Jean Templin, 5th Grade.

We had a flower show.
We made miniature flower arrangements.
We used bottle tops, shells, old spoons and all sorts of things. We even used an old pipe.
It is fun to make these tiny arrangements. — The First Grade.

The Moth
We had a little branch with a cocoon on it. We were waiting for the moth to come out. It came out Monday afternoon. At first its wings were tiny and its body was big. Then its wings stretched and stretched. At the body it looked like a bumble-bee. When its wings got big they were reddish brown with yellow spots. It was pretty. We sent it to the other rooms for the children to see. — Sally Clifford, 2nd Grade.

Plays
The other second grade invited us to see a play. It was nice; so we wanted to give a play for them. Our reading group made up a play about a story we had read.
It was "The Boy and the Goats."
We had a good time doing it. —
John Kirtley, 2nd Grade.

Huggins, Dougherty, First and Second in Annapolis Examination

Two Carmel boys, Bill Huggins and Bill Dougherty carried off first and second honors for the Eleventh Congressional District in competitive examinations for appointment to Annapolis, Superintendent J. W. Getsinger announced with pride this week.

Huggins, highest on the list, is

NATURAL GAS RATE CUT

Effective Feb. 15, 1943
SAVES CUSTOMERS
$1,450,000 per year

7 MAJOR RATE CUTS SINCE 1930

After months of study of changing population densities and increased per capita usage of Natural Gas, the California State Railroad Commission ordered a general downward revision of gas rates, effective on February 15th. This reduction brings a saving to our customers that will amount to $1,450,000 per year. It is a saving that accumulates with each gallon of water that is heated, each meal that is cooked and each hour your home is heated by Natural Gas.

We urge our customers to hold on to this saving in the daily cost of living. Be economical in the use of Natural Gas. Be thrifty with your Gas Range. Guard against overheating your home. Stop wasteful use of hot water.
Remember, Natural Gas is doing a big and vital job in war industries. Army camps and war worker dwellings need it too, in increasing quantity. Keep your use of Natural Gas down to essential need, save gas and money.

Annual Rate Cut Savings to Customers

1929-30	$8,139,800	1939	$1,000,000

1938	$2,026,000	1942	$750,400

Pal, in Luxurious Retirement, Still Gets Fan Mail

A card has just been received (and delivered) by the Carmel Post Office, addressed "To Pal, Carmel's Town Dog." "Dear Pal," it reads: "I am happy to know some fine Carmel person has provided you with a home in your old age (a beautiful act which deserves much praise), so you can now find a nice place to sleep and get plenty to eat. Best luck, old fellow friend. Eiler C. Larsen, Chicago Park, California."

It has been estimated that Pal, who makes a very fine home indeed with his benefactor, J. King Maderes, must now be nigh on to sixteen years of age. Back in the March 19th, 1937, issue of the Carmel Cymbal it was remarked that "the three-score and ten of a dog's life seem, lately, to weigh somewhat on the wag of Pal's tail." But that was before the days of his present well-regulated diet, dog-beauty-rest mattress and two special pillows! He bids fair, from his present state of excellent health, to set a new record for canine longevity.

At Pebble Beach

M. De Neale Morgan
Box 700
Carmel, California

Dear Madam:

You remember, I am sure, the soldier who passed by your lovely place last Tuesday, to whom you were so kind. He was drowned at Carmel Beach the following day.

We had been engaged for over three years, and his passing to me, is very tragic. I received a letter from him today, written Tuesday night, and I wish to quote a bit of it here:

"All afternoon I drank in the beauty of Carmel, then bought some pictures so you can share with me in some measure the grandeur I have found. As I walked down one street, I came to a well-kept flower garden in front of a house. Out from the gable of the porch was a small sign labelling the house as the studio of M. De Neale Morgan. In the flowers, a lady was digging in the dirt with a small earth fork. I stopped to look at the garden and expressed my admiration for the beauty of the place. As I talked, the kind lady invited me to go in and meet her sister, whose name I had seen on the sign. Not only did she show many of her paintings, all of natural scenes, but she made a silhouette of me. As soon as I find an envelope large enough to accommodate it, I intend to send it to you."

He sent me the pamphlets in his letter, but the silhouette was not mailed. However, I hope to receive it when his things are sent home.

You can never know how much I appreciate your kindness. I am a lover of fine paintings, and I know your work is majestic.

Sincerely,

Lula Mae Starnes

We're Off! Abalone League Opens; New Material Promising

By DOC STANIFORD
(Behind the Plate)

The Abalone League got under way Sunday, but up to 10:30 in the morning, it was doubtful if the ground would be dry enough to permit the games to be played. I think the captains of the teams did remarkably well to gather their teams together in such short notice.

We may have had more colorful openings in former years (and I have seen a few—18) but when you consider so many players have been taken away in the armed forces and defense work, the turnout Sunday was better than one would expect, and I feel we can look forward to a very successful season. After all, some of us "older birds" can't go on forever, with one possible exception—Ivan Kelsey, who told me confidentially he expects to be playing when he is 90 years old. There were many new faces (and I think the younger ones should be encouraged to carry on) and only a few of our old gang. One person in particular we were glad to see back in the fold, the only original "Pepper Box Kid," yes sir, none other than Charlie Frost.

The opening ceremony was very brief. Mayor P. A. McCreery was on hand to act as master of ceremonies and introduced our own Judge Landis, Tal Josselyn, who gave a short speech in regard to the historical background of the league and mentioned three former players who in the last year have passed on to a higher league, Eddie Burns, Archie Kay and Otto Bardarson. Then, the raising of the American flag and, for the first time, the official Abalone League flag; then, Andy Jacobsen, chairman of the county board of supervisors, threw in the first ball and the game started, Giants vs. Shamrocks.

The Shamrocks jumped into the lead from the start and were never in danger because of Gene Ricketts' air-tight pitching and the timely hitting of his team mates; so when the final curtain was rung down, the Shamrocks were on the long end of the score: Shamrocks, 9; Giants, 3.

The second game was a walk-over for the Pilots. They hit all over the lot, and the poor Tigers couldn't seem to be able to chase any runs across the pan, other than the first four up to the fourth inning, after that, scoring for them was as scarce as an old maid's teeth. Scores: Pilots 16; Tigers 4.

Next Sunday, Tigers play the Shamrocks at 1:30 p.m.; Pilots vs. Giants, 2:30.

Team Standings:	W.	L.	Pct.
Shamrocks	1	0	1.000
Pilots	1	0	1.000
Giants	0	1	.000
Tigers	0	1	.000

Team Managers

Giants: Bobby Bell
Pilots: Perry Brown
Shamrocks: Tommy Hefling
Tigers: Bill Sapsis

One of the highlights of the opening ceremonies was the reading of a telegram from Lt. Arthur Hull sent from Washington, D. C., in which he said he was sorry he wasn't with us this year, but hoped to be with us again soon, when the war is over. All right, Art. We wish the same to you.

The League Dope--Guaranteed Right

Here—here—here it is, Ladies and Gents! The revised, corrected, guaranteed to be accurate Abalone League Line Up, Schedule and List of Managers. Paste it on the wall.

The Schedule is subject to the vagaries of the weather and may be changed at the drop of a rain cloud. The Line Up is also subject to change if one team persists in being too good (people are looking hard at the Pilots right now), in which case the teams will be reorganized so that the talent is more evenly distributed throughout the League.

Meanwhile, here is the authenticated dope:

Dancing and Song in Rhythm Parade Film

Parade. The picture on Poe's life gives the story of the poet's driving ambition, his rebellious nature and lack of responsibility, played by John Shepard with Linda Darnell in the role of Virginia Clem, his wife. Youth on Parade is comedy, music and college life, with Tom Brown and Ruth Terry.

Seven Days' Leave, playing next Friday and Saturday with the added feature, Highways by Night, brings not only scenes of Army life, radio programs and dances but Victor Mature in the leading role and Lucille Ball for feminine ballast. This is a hit musical with two popular orchestras, Freddy Martin's and Les Brown's, thrown in for good measure. Highways by Night is taken from a Clarence Buddington Kelland story, "Silver Spoon" which ran in the Saturday Evening Post. Two newcomers to the screen, Richard Carlson and Jane Randolph, have the leading roles that take a young millionaire away from a great motor works he owns into the life of a playboy and gangster fighter with the usual Kelland story for action and complications.

history at Carmel High school, now studying Japanese at the U. S. Navy language school at Boulder, Colorado, writes to his friend and former boss, "I am engaged in a great job, and am enjoying it very much. We are battering down the outer walls of the world's toughest language and progressing hourly. My Chinese background is of great assistance."

Lt. Arthur Hull, at Fort Meade, Maryland, city councilman and principal of Sunset School when he enlisted over a year ago, absent the longest, is most loyal in keeping in touch with his home town, though the fact that he has a pretty fiancée, Bernice Reilly, here no doubt helps to direct his attention Carmelwards. In his last letter to Superintendent Getsinger he boasts about the "luxury" his outfit is enjoying. "We have showers and winterized tents," he says. "I'm battalion mess officer and we feed about 800 every meal. Also, I have a warrant officer as my assistant, so I am rapidly giving the details to him."

Sunday, he proved himself a True Old Carmelite when he remembered that the time had come for the Abalone League to start, and sent a telegram to the players from Washington, D. C., saying he wished he could be with them and wishing them a good season.

The Golden Text will be: "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." (Romans 8:14).

Bible selections will include the following passages from Matthew 17: 14, 15, 18: "And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord have mercy on my son; for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for oft-times he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water . . . And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible. The only way to this living Truth, which heals the sick, is found in the Science of divine Mind as taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus." (p. 180).

Tax, Child Welfare Bills Discussed By Legislators

Satisfaction with California's new Governor and an optimistic outlook for the Republican party were expressed by both Senator Ed Tickle and Assemblyman Fred Weybret at the luncheon meeting of the Republican Women's club in Monterey Saturday.

"After four years of Olsenism, the state is now getting out of the mire and down to real business," Senator Tickle said, "but the prosperity we have now is transient, due to war production. The surplus in the treasury will not continue increasing at its present rate, because there will be a reduction in taxes. War production has given the state housing and labor problems. The draft (300,000 California men are in the army now and there will be 250,000 more) has to some extent made room for some of our migratory workers.

A problem especially of interest to women is the dislocation of family life due to war conditions. The repercussions may be demoralizing. Bills pertaining to child care need careful consideration.

As to the tax reductions, no one can tell what form will be taken. There are over 100 proposed bills on this issue alone. Until they are revamped in committee their final form is unpredictable.

Assemblyman Weybret also spoke of the number of proposed social service and child welfare bills and pointed out the need of careful scrutiny so that "we will not do the same to our children as was done in Germany and Russia."

Weybret reported that the drop in the amount of money available from the gas tax will probably mean the highways repair work will be curtailed. It is necessary that attention be given to the repair of bridges, especially in the northern part of the state, he said.

Both Tickle and Weybret held bright prospects for the Republican party. The party is out of debt, Tickle reported. Weybret expected that the new population of the state would increase the Republican registration.

Nineteen Warned, 1 Fined for Dimout Violations Here

Carmel is complying very well with the dimout regulation, Police Chief Roy Fraties decided after a complete city check up by special police Thursday night.

Under Dr. Grant Phillips, 15 special police cruising about in cars and on foot covered all of the incorporated area of Carmel and found only 20 violations of the dimout regulations. In most cases, householders had neglected to pull curtains. A few had unshielded porch lights burning. All, with the exception of one, were at home and a warning sufficed. But Mrs. Harold Aldrich, Torres and 6th, who had left her porch light on, was not at home when the police called. She'd gone to the post office. The trip cost her $25, as that was the amount of the fine levied by Judge George P. Ross when she appeared before him the following day.

"It will cost the next one $100," the judge said.

New Warning Signs For Carmel Beach

In accordance with a decision reached at the City Council meeting Wednesday night, Commissioner of Health and Safety, Fred Godwin, is to write to the coast guard station in San Francisco for a copy of the wording used on the warning signs posting the San Francisco beach.

Three large signs are to be put up at Carmel beach in the hope of discouraging swimmers so that they will not risk their lives in the dangerous currents off shore. The council voted to have the beach phone connected with the police office so that in case of accident the ambulance could be quickly dispatched to the beach.

Another matter discussed at the meeting was a letter received from the Business Association requesting that the street department postpone the completion of Junipero street and concentrate on filling up chuck holes. Street Commissioner L. L. Dewar said the council would give it due consideration.

WAACs' Truck Comes To Carmel Wednesday

A mobile unit of the WAACs, Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, truck and trailer, will arrive here Wednesday and take up the spot Chief of Police Roy Fraties is reserving for it on Sixth street, near Dolores. (Part of the Post Office lot).

Then, from 10 in the morning until seven at night for that one day the WAACs' recruiters will be available for questioning by any Carmel woman who may be interested in joining the Army.

their owners. They may be taken out on leash only by a responsible person. Young children will not be deemed responsible in the legal sense. Any loose dogs will be picked up by the county dog catcher.

The "spot quarantine" is an arrangement by which designated areas of the county in which the disease has broken out can be put under quarantine while the rest of the county is not affected. Quarantine areas at present are Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside, the military posts, and, within a few days, Carmel and environs.

Should the epidemic abate before the 90 days period has expired, the quarantine will be lifted.

Norman Reynolds

By MRS. JOS. SCHOENINGER

In the death of Norman Reynolds on the morning of March 3, Carmel has sustained the loss of one of its substantial citizens. He took a great interest in local affairs and was always ready to discuss the issues.

One of his pleasures was attending a club of local men who had speakers on various subjects which greatly widened their horizons. But his greatest joy was in his family, and all his friends rejoice that he was privileged to live to see and have the companionship of his little grandson who was named for him. Just to see his expression of joy when he was with the child was most revealing.

The relationship with his family was one of genuine affection and this first break in their ranks is a sad one for his widow and two daughters. It was a great satisfaction to him to have seen his daughters married and established in their own homes. Not all parents are so fortunate.

For years Mr. Reynolds was a devoted and faithful member of the Episcopal Church and served as vestryman at Del Monte Chapel over a long period of time.

For some years he had been severely handicapped in his activities by illness and it was a great trial to him for he had always been a busy person. In spite of this hardship, he was cheerful and made no complaint because of his illness and suffering. This was one of his finest traits and should be an inspiration to all of his friends and acquaintances.

At this time of loss and sadness, Carmel extends to his widow, the daughters and their families its sincere sympathy. The ranks of Carmel's older citizens are thinning and fortunate are those who can pass away quietly in their sleep as Mr. Reynolds did.

Carmel Is Going Bucolic—Likes It

tary of the County Planning Commission that Corum Jackson is the official dispenser of permits and anyone wishing to raise chickens in the unincorporated area adjacent to Carmel, should see him. Residents of Carmel proper need no permits and may proceed to raise chickens without any formality. That someone has already started his poultry project is indicated by the arrival early this week of a shipment of 200 baby chicks, filling the Carmel post office with an orchestra of cheeping that brought nostalgic smiles to the face of older inhabitants who had known a country cross roads store in their youth.

By CHARLES A. WATSON

You can now plant potatoes with safety in Carmel, but up the valley it might be a little early, as we will have more cold rains which might be followed by light frost which is very bad for potatoes and beans. However, now is a good time to put in your carrot, lettuce, chard, cabbage and broccoli seeds.

It is better to plant a few at a time so as to keep a steady supply instead of putting in a lot and having them come all at once, when you will be over-supplied and then shortly without any.

The tall growing telephone pea is the best for a small garden as you will get a far heavier yield.

Signs City Checks

weeks ago with the flu. She kept on with her work in spite of the advice of her friends, and read the minutes of the last council meeting she attended as Clerk in a voice that was painfully hoarse.

Finally she was forced to take to her bed. She swore in Jeanette Parkes, who has since been efficiently carrying on her duties as Deputy Clerk, but Saidee couldn't stay away from the office. Though her doctor told her it was too soon to return, Saidee started coming to work again last week. Friday she suffered a relapse and was taken to the hospital.

Yesterday, an hour after she had signed the salary warrants her doctor saw her and issued orders that she is to have no visitors. And there is to be no more transferring the city clerk's office to hospital room for the present. The doctor's verdict is that Saidee's will to serve is greater than her strength.

The Board of Directors of the Carmel Art Association postponed its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday of this week out of respect to the passing Sunday in Monterey of Joseph Kurtz Oliver, father of Mr. Myron Oliver, the association president.
